CBRN-Analysis - Software License Key (SLK)

Tutorial Slide Pack

How does it work?

How does the software license key work? In short:

- CBRN-Analysis must be activated using an activation key (this must be done by internet access either directly via a wizard or indirectly using a web browser)
- Single software licenses will be node locked to a specific PC/Laptop
- Service licenses will NOT be node locked

There are two factors that determine the precise activation process:

- Does the CBRN-Analysis computer have direct Internet access?
- Is a Service or a Single Operator License required for CBRN-Analysis?

How to activate CBRN-Analysis
Subscription Service License User

Ensure that the Software License Key is Deactivated from the Laptop/Computer that made the Service License Folder otherwise it will be node-locked to that Laptop/Computer forever.

If the Software License Key has not been deactivated from the Laptop/Computer that made previous Version of CBRN-Analysis, then that same Laptop/Computer must be found to carry out deactivation before the latest Version of CBRN-Analysis can be turned into a Service License Folder.

Support – Service Software License Key

To recap for Service Licenses - when CBRN-Analysis has been activated on ONE computer, then two license files are generated:

- Make a backup of the license file
- Distribute the file together with CBRN-Analysis to all users. This will enable all users to install and use CBRN-Analysis
- More information is available in the Installation Guide
- Separate visual flowcharts are available on request

There should be no support required from Bruhn NewTech to manage Software License Keys for Service Licenses.

But if required, Bruhn NewTech support is available during normal office hours.
